The new employes at the Gas Works commenced work on the excavation for the foundation for the new tank yesterday, under the supervision of Mr. White, the engineer having charge of the operations. Two policemen were on hand to protect the workmen if necessary, and it is possible their presence had a salutary effect. At any rate the discharged workmen went no further than to jeer at and threaten the new men.

New men.
Yesterday a letter was received by the Trustees, signed by seven of the old hands, notifying them that the signers considered the city, or the Trustees, indebted to them in the sum of 25 cents per day for the time they had been employed, and that unless said additional wages were paid forthwith suit would be entered for its recovery. One of the former employes also called at the INTALICIENCES office last evening to present the strikers' side of the case. He said when the men went to work there was no stipulation as to wages, but that they supposed they would receive "city prices," which they further supposed to be $1.50 per day. After they had worked for several days Mr. White told them they would receive but $1.25. They then worked to the end of the week, and quit. They now claim to be entitled to "regular city prices," which they claim to be $1.50 per day.

Mr. Caldwell, clerk of the board of trustees, and Mr. White, superintendent of the improvements now being made, were interviewed last night by a reporter. They employed, they were given to understand unequivocally that their wages would be but $1.25 per day, and as this seemed to cause some dissatisfaction, Mr. White said: "Any of you who do not want to work for $1.25 a a day may quit, for that work for $1.25 a a day may quit, for that new men. COMMENCEMENT.

Commencement Exercises at Washington-Jefferson College.

The seventy-eighth annual commencement of this old and well known institution of learning was inaugurated Sabbath afternoon by the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon by the President, Dr. Hays.
The text was from 2 Samuel xv-4: "On, that I were made judge in the land, that every man which hath any sins or cause might come unto me, and I would do him justice." The Doctor preached in his usual forcible and eloquent manner, and dwell largely on the results of a laudable ambition, at the same time reprehending the assuming of duties that can not be properly done. The sketch of Absalom's life and description of his tragic end were told in eloquent words, and the peroration, referring the death of Absalom and Paul to the thoughts of the young men of the class, was very fine.

The address to the Society of Religious Inquiry was delivered in the evening at eight o'clock by Rev. E. B. Snyder, a well known Methodist minister of Allegheny city. His address was based on the words of Paul: "To me, to live is Christ." Apart from his stagey style of delivery, the discourse was a good one and replete with sound thoughts and good advice. The Society of Inquiry is an important factor in the good work accomplished by the College. It has a nicely furnished room in the college buildings, and the members of evince much earnestness in their work.

Stewart, of Washington, Pa.; the gen leman's introductory was a graceful little effort, and the remaining parts of his duties was done in an easy manner. The class oration was delivered by Mr. Thos. I rwin, of Claysville, Pa., whom Wheeling people will remember as one of the bass singers in the College Glee Club that visited your city recently and made so many friends by their good singing and gentlemanly conduct. Mr. Irwin is a good speaker and had a splendid performance, his subject being "The Rank and File." Mr. I. B. Hamilton, of Washington, read the class history, a performance that is always interesting. The poem was read by Mr. Alex S. Hunter, of Washington, and was rather above the ordinary, displaying a great deal of originality and considerable talent in versification. Mr. Rice H. Bell, of West Alexander, Pa., read the class prophecy. He was greeted with frequent applause, and made many good points and witty sallies. Mr. Joe H. Bausman, of Washington, closed the exercises of the afternoon with his class album. The crayon sketches of eccentric individuals of the class, and of many exciting scenes that took place during the course were well executed and drew forth hearty applause. inties was done in an easy manner. lass oration was delivered by Mr.

The Promenade Concert took place in the College Building at eight in the evening. The frequent showers of rain did not sensibly diminish the crowd of gaily dressed ladies and handsome young men that always enjoy these concerts. The best of popular and classic music was rendered by Toerge's famous band, of Pittsburgh, which has been engaged for the three days. We noticed many familiar faces at the concert, and picked up the following PERSONAL POINTS.

Resolved, That in local polities we will give our support to such men as will give us, as colored men, the same rights and representation as they give to white men.

Resolved, That we as a unit do not feel ourself under any obligations to any man or party for any privileges that we now enjoy, we having long since paid the debt.

Resolved, That we will adhere to and support the colored man let him be nominated by either party, and will do all we can to by either party, and will do all we can to defeat any man running for office who is opposed to our interests and progress as a people, being cognizant of the the fact that in city and county we have no representation.
